

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

In accordance with the arrangement entered into with subscribers, the series of Glasgow Protocols, commenced six years ago, concludes with the issue of the present volume.

Embracing between the first and last dates (1530-1600) a period of seventy years, Glasgow Protocols are not exempt from the defect common to the other early records of the city, viz., want of continuity. During fifteen of these years (1537-47 and 1576-81) there are no protocol books of any description, while for the period between 1589 and 1598 those of the town clerk are not extant. The latter break is, however, to some extent, filled by appropriating the protocols of George Huchesone, which commence in 1587. Abstracts from his book were begun in the last volume, and these are continued in the following pages down to 1600. To that date abstracts of the protocols in Henry Gibsone's third book are likewise given.

As auxiliary to the volumes of charters and records edited by Sir James Marwick, it is hoped that the series now completed will be regarded as a substantial addition to the stock of information derivable from original sources, and be specially helpful towards the attainment of a more accurate knowledge of Glasgow in the olden time. Though the range of subjects is not confined within local limits, it is principally the history and topography of Glasgow—with its genealogies and civic and ecclesiastical arrangements—that the protocols serve to illustrate. On these topics much information, which could not be obtained elsewhere, has now been made available, but it is in topographic discoveries that the greatest success has been attained. From the descriptions of properties, now accessible in print, it might be possible to define the situation of most of the individual properties in Glasgow in the sixteenth century. As an experiment in this line, that section of the city which embraces the cathedral and some adjoining streets, including those in which nearly all the prebendal manses were situated, has been delineated on the accompanying map, which, like that given in the first volume, has been prepared by Mr. A. B. M'Donald, city engineer.

Reference has already been made to the services rendered by Mr. George Neilson in connection with the first volume. Throughout the whole progress of the work Mr. Neilson's good offices in the solving of doubtful points and the smoothing of editorial difficulties have been continued, and for these the Editor has again to express his grateful acknowledgments.

TOWN CLERKS OF GLASGOW.

3314. JOHN WYLIE AND SPOUSE. 14 Jan., 1591-2. A.R. 25, bet. 11 and 12 a.m.

GEO. HUCHESONE.
Vol. 20.

William Bogle in Keppoich, attorney and in name of John Wylie, clerk of the King's chancery, and Agnes Sinclear, his spouse, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, lord feu-farmer of the barony, lordship and regality of Glasgow, granted to John Wylie and spouse, and l.l., the half of the town and lands of Keppoich, extending to a 43 s. 4 d. land, old extent, with the pertinents; the half of the town and lands of Garroich, extending to a 43 s. 4 d. land, same extent, with the pertinents; also the 20 s. land of Kirklie, with the pertinents; together with the coals and coal heughs, worked and to be worked (lucratis et lucrundis), within the said halves of the said lands, and within the said lands of Kirklie, and all their pertinents; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh on 3 January, 1591-2, in presence of George Huchesone, notary public, Walter Stewart, brother-german of Mathew Stewart of Barscube, Quintigern Baxter, Alexander Stewart, and Alexander Craufurd, servitors of the commendator.<sup>1</sup> Sasine given on the ground of the lands by John Huchesone

<sup>1</sup> The charter narrated in No. 3314, and several other charters referred to in subsequent protocols, were granted by the commendator of Blantyre, in exercise of the power to feu lands in Glasgow barony to the old rentallers, conferred by the crown charter in his favour, dated 3 November, 1587 (see protocol No. 3298), and in the ratifying charter, dated 26 August, 1591 (Reg. Mag. Sig. v. No. 1932; Glasg. Chart. pt. ii. p. 227). Information regarding most of the rentallers in possession of the barony lands between 1509 and 1570 will be found in the "Diocesan Registers," printed by the Grampian Club.

John Scott, baker, citizen of Glasgow, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to the said John Scott, Mr. James Landes, William Hereot, George Young, Robert Young, David baronie, domini et regalitatis de Glasgow); but it has been considered unnecessary to repeat these words in the printed abstracts.

3317. ROBERT GLEN. 17 January, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

William Glen, baker, citizen, by his own hands, gave sasine to Robert Glen, his son, of his twenty-sixth part, called mylne day, of the wheat mill, commonly called the Bactaris Quheit Mylne, lying on the water of Kelving, <sup>1</sup> In his History of "The Incorporation of Bakers of Glasgow" (p. 3) Mr. Ness describes a similar charter granted to the bakers on 8 August, 1589, and states that the feu duty payable to the commendator was £23 Scots. The charter narrated in the text is in similar terms to that of 1588, though the names of some of the bakers are different. The first charter was granted by the commendator shortly after he got his own charter of 1587, and the second followed the ratification of 1591 cited in the footnote to No. 3314.

Gedion Russall, son of q. Quintigern Russall, citizen of Edinburgh, proprietor of the mill lands and others aftermentioned, by his own hands, gave sasine to Mr. John Skene, advocate before the lords of council,<sup>1</sup> present and accepting, and to Mr. Robert Irwin, attorney and in name of Helen Somervell, spouse of Mr. John, and l.l., in liferent, and to Mr. Patrick Murray, advocate, as attorney and in name of Alexander Skene, third son of Mr. John Skene and spouse, whom failing, of John Skene, brother-german of Alexander, whom failing, to the heirs and assignees of Mr. John Skene whomsoever, of an annualrent of 100 merks Scots, payable furth of the paper mill (molendinum papiratum), commonly called paper mylne,<sup>2</sup> and two grain mills, on the lands commonly called Cwmnyngisknow, and the building or house and principal manor, commonly called Dalry Mylnes, lying within the shire of Edinburgh, barony of (blank), and parish of St. Cuthbert, with yards, tofts, crofts, and other pendicles and pertinents; and that by delivery of clap and hopper of the mills, and earth and stone of the ground; and all conform to a contract between Mr. John Skene, for himself and spouse on the one part, and q. Quintigern Russall and Gedion Russall, on the other lie, and nane uthiris, to use and exerce the said arte of making of paper of all sortis within quhatsumevir parte of this realme in tyme cuming, at his plesure, during the space of nyne yeiris nixt to cum." Petir and his partners were required to commence work before 1 August, and to carry it on continuously, otherwise the privilege was to cease (Privy Council Reg. iv. pp. 452-3). If the monopoly was entered on and persevered in, it is probable that the paper mill referred to in the text was connected with the enterprise. Dr. Robert Chambers notes the licence given by the privy council, but remarks that there is reason to believe that the design was abortive. He adds that there was no further attempt at a native manufacture of paper till 1675, when a work was established at Dalry Mills, on the Water of Leith (Domestic Annals, i. p. 104; ii. p. 398).

<sup>2</sup> On 4 February, 1580-90, the privy council, considering the benefits likely to be secured "be the exercise of the arte of making of paper of all sortis within this realme," granted "licence and privilege to Petir Graet Heare, Almane, and his partinaris quhatsumevir, allaner-

Annualrent to be redeemable for 1000 merks.<sup>1</sup> Witnesses: Andrew Wood of Largo, (blank) Strang of Balkasky, Mr. John Russall, advocate, Walter Stewart, servitor of the lord of Blantyre, David Flescher and Joseph Miller, servitors of Mr. John Skene.

Vol. 23.

3319. JOHN STEWART, JUNIOR, AND SPOUSE. 5 Feb., 1591-2, bet. 4 and 5 p.m. t. 24.

Walter Stewart, procurator and in name of Mathew Stewart of Barscuib, his brother, came to the presence of a noble and potent lord, Ludovic duke of Lennox, earl Dernelie, etc., lord superior of the lands aftermentioned, and resigned in his hands in favour of John Stewart, son and apparent heir male of Mathew Stewart and Sibill Edmestoun, spouses, the lands of Northbar, Craigtoun, Mylnetoun, and Bar alias Barangrie, together with the ferry boat (cymba carina) of Inchynnane, and also all and sundry lands, sheaves, duties, fees, liberties, commodities, and the privileges belonging and by old custom pertaining to the said boat; lying on the east side of the church of St. Convald of Inchynnane,<sup>2</sup> upon the waters of Gryfe and Cairt, between the lands of Inchynnane, belonging to the duke of Lennox, held by old consuetude, and the customs and other profits falling and of old pertaining to the said boat whatsoever, lying in the parish of Inchynnane and shire of Renfrew; and Walter, as procurator and in name of Mathew, also resigned in the hands of the superior, the duke of Lennox, in favour of John Stewart and Sibill Edmestone, and l.l., and their heirs-male, the 40 s. land of Nuttishill, with the pertinents, lying in the lordship of Dernelie and the said shire; and an annualrent of 22 bolls oat meal, upliftable yearly between the feast of the Nativity of our Lord and the purification of the blessed Virgin Mary, furth of the foresaid ferry boat (cymba carina) of Inchynnane, lands, profits, and commodities whatsoever. Reserving to Mathew Stewart the liferent of the said lands of Bar, Mylnetone, Craigtoune, and Barangrie, with the ferry boat; and also reserving to Jonet Logane, spouse of Mathew Stewart, the liferent of two-thirds parts of the lands of Craigtone and Mylntoun, with 10 bolls oatmeal, upliftable yearly, furth of <sup>1</sup> The transaction here recorded seems to have consisted in a loan by Mr. John Skene and family of 1000 merks, at 10 per cent., on the security of the mills.

<sup>2</sup> "The Breviary of Aberdeen commemorates St. Conval as the patron of Inchenennern, and relates that a stone on which he miraculously voyaged from the Irish shore to the Clyde was to be seen on the bank of that stream, where it was known as the 'currus Sancti Convalli,' and wrought miraculous cures on men and beasts" (Origines Parochiales, i. p. 507). The ancient church, supposed to have been built in 1100, was situated near the confluence of the Gryfe and Cart, and was taken down only in 1828 (Ib. p. 78). Ferrycroft, the name of lands at Inchinnan, perpetuates the memory of the ancient ferry, which has long ago been superseded by bridges.

the Maynes of Bar or Barangrie, with a reasonable third of all the foirsaid lands and boat, with the pertinents. Sasine given by the Duke, by delivery of staff and baton, in his chamber, within the town of Edinburgh (oppidum Edinburgi), in Nyddreis Wynd, in the buildings (edibus) of Nicolas Uduart,<sup>1</sup> on the west side of the said vennel. Witnesses: Mr. Henry Keir of Greinland, John Elphinstone, William Orme, servitors of the Duke, and Gavin Grhame, citizen of Glasgow.

3320. JAMES CORBAT IN TOWCORS. 15 February, 1591-2, 8 a.m.

Gabriell Corbat of Hardgrave, feu-farmer of the lands aftermentioned, resigned in the hands of the superior, Walter, commendator of Blantyre, in favour of his kinsman, Mr. James Corbatt, the 26 s. 8 d. land, old extent, of Towcors, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln falling to and belonging to the said lands; and with all other parts and pendicles thereof whatsoever; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanark.<sup>2</sup> Lands given to James Corbat by the commendator, by delivery of staff and baton, conform to a charter granted by him. Done in the dwelling house of the commendator, within the town of Edinburgh, on the south side of the street thereof, near the salt trone, called Dobbie's land. Witnesses: James Dunlop, younger of that Ilk, Patrick Somervell, son of the laird of Cambusnathen, Alexander Craufurd and Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator.

3321. MR. ROBERT WILKIE, MINISTER. 2 March, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

Mr. Robert Wilkie, minister of the Word of God at the church of Kilmarnok, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the 20 s. land, old extent, in Borrofeild, with the pertinents, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgw and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburg, on 20 February, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that Ilk, John Stewart, <sup>1</sup> These buildings are thus referred to in Chambers's "Traditions of Edinburgh" (1890 edition, pp. 229-30): "Niddry's Wynd abounded in curious antique houses, many of which had been the residences of remarkable persons. The most interesting bit was a paved court, about half-way down on the west side, called 'Lockhart's Court,' from its having latterly been the residence of the family of Lockhart of Carnwath. This was in reality a quadrangular palace, the whole being of elegant old architecture, in one design, and accessible by a deep arched gateway. It was built by Nicol Edward or Uduart, a wealthy citizen, who was provost of Edinburgh in 1591. . . . We learn from Moyses' Memoirs that in January, 1591, this house was the temporary residence of James VI. and his Queen, then recently arrived from Denmark; and that on the 7th of February, the Earl of Huntly passed hence, out of the immediate royal presence, when he went to murder the Bonny Earl of Moray at Donibristle." The names of the King and the Duke appear in the sederunt of a Privy Council held at Edinburgh on 4 and 5 February, and apparently they were each accommodated in the wealthy provost's "palace" about the same time.

Sasine given on the ground of the lands by George Young, baker, citizen of Glasgow, bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: James Wilsone, merchant, Thomas Kirkwod, flesher, Andrew Galloway, maltman, citizens, Patrick Lawrie, servant of q. Lord Boyd, and Mr. John Hereott, notary public.

3322. ADAM CRUIX alias FOWLAR. 20 March, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

John Fowlar, citizen of Glasgow, attorney and in name of Adam Cruix alias Fowlar, brother and heir of q. William Fowlar alias Cruix, produced a precept<sup>1</sup> direct from the King's chancery setting forth that by inquest it had been found that q. William Cruix alias Fowlar, citizen of Glasgow, died last vest and seised as of fee, at the peace and faith of the King, in an orchard or yard (pomerio seu horto), with free passage, ingress and egress, and the pertinents, lying within the said city, in the street called Tronguit, between the lands of q. Richard Ros on the east, the new cemetery sometime of the church of St. Mary on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, and the common alay on the west; and that John Cruix alias Fowler, brother-german of q. William, was his nearest and lawful heir; that he was of lawful age; and that the property was formerly held in capite of the provost of the new church of the blessed Mary of the said city, and was then held of the King by virtue of the act of annexation of church lands to the crown.<sup>1</sup> The King therefore charged the provost

t. 26.

<sup>1</sup> The patronage of the provost of the collegiate church was vested in the abbot and convent of Kilwinnong monastery. The first provost was Christopher Boyd, vicar of Dalry, and the last (and perhaps the only other) Archibald Crawford, rector of Eglesham (Liber Collegii Nostre Domine, pp. xv. xxxi.) The property mentioned in the protocol was purchased by the city of Glasgow in 1627, and the title deeds are preserved among the city's writs (Inv. I. bundle 18). The first writ consists of a charter granted by King James VI., under his great seal (the seal is in perfect preservation), on 31 March, 1591. By this charter the King, with consent of his chancellor, treasurer, clerk of justiciary, and collector general and treasurer of new augmentations, granted in feu-farm to William Cruix, alias Fowlar, formerly farmer (antiquo armorario) of the property, a yard (hortum lie yaird) lying at the back of the collegiate church of St. Mary, between the yard of the church on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, and the common passage called the alay on the west. It is stated that the yard formerly belonged to the collegiate church as part of the church land and patrimony thereof, and then belonged to the King, by virtue of the act of parliament annexing church lands to the crown, of which lands the King was constituted superior. The property was to be held of the King and his successors, for the payment to him and them of 26s. 8d. as old farm, and 4d. as augmentation of rental, making together 27s. yearly; and heirs were to pay a duplicand the first year of their entry. The writ next in date is a precept of clare constat granted, not by the King, but by "Mr Archibald Crawford, rector of Egleschem, provost of the collegiate church of St. Mary," and styling himself "lord superior of the yard underwritten." By this precept it is narrated that "William Cruix, alias Fowlar, citizen of Glasgow, died last vest and seised as of fee in feu-farm . . . in a yard called Provestis Yarde, belonging to my said provestry . . . lying in the street and bailies of Glasgow to give sasine to the said Adam or his attorney; saving the right of any one, and taking security of 54s. as the duplication of feu-farm owing to the King. Precept dated at Edinburgh, 18 January, 1591-2, A.R. 25. On the back these words were written: "I have receavit this double. M. G. Young." Sasine given by Hector Stewart, one of the bailies of Glasgow. Witnesses: Mr. John Hammiltone of Bornecleuch, Quintigern Wilsone, merchant, Robert Steinsone, tailor, citizens, Archibald Lettrik, and Robert Herbertsone, writer.

3323. MR. JAMES CORBATT IN TOWCORS. 3 April, 1592, 3 p.m.

Mr. James Corbatt in Towcours produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the two merk land, old extent, of Towcours, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln falling and belonging to the said lands, for the dry multure always belonging thereto (pro arida mullura semper proprium fuit);<sup>1</sup> with the pertinents; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh, on 20 February, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that ilk, John Stewart, younger of Barscuib, Mr. John Skeyne, advocate, Walter Stewart, Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator, and George Huchesone, notary public.<sup>2</sup> Sasine given by called Tronegait, between the cemetery of the said new church on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, the yard of q. Richard Ros on the east, and the common alley (deambulatorium) on the west; and that Adam Cruix alias Foular, brother-german of q. William, is his nearest and lawful heir . . . and that the said yard is held in feu-farm of me and my successors, provosts of the said collegiate church, for payment of 27s. usual money yearly." The bailie named in the precept, which was granted at Glasgow, on 28 December, 1591, was therefore directed to give sasine to Adam. Instead of taking sasine on this precept, the heir seems to have obtained the precept narrated in the protocol, and taken sasine on it. Perhaps Archibald Crawford drew the yearly revenues of his benefice, but the King's collector secured the heir's entry money. By a charter dated 13 May, 1592, Adam Cruix, alias Foular, sold the yard to Mr. Henry Gibsone, commissary clerk, who obtained a crown charter of confirmation on 31 May, 1592. From Henry Gibson the yard passed, in 1599, to his son Hugh, from whom it was acquired by the city in 1627. By disposition dated 19 December of that year "maister Hew Gibsoun of Haghill," with consent of Barbara Rowatt, his spouse, in consideration of the price of £300 Scots (£25 sterling), being the amount of "unlawis" collected by the bailies in 1625 and 1626, disposed to the provost, bailies, and community of Glasgow, "our yaird, callit the Provost Yaird of the New Kirk of the samyn, upoun the southe syd of the Tronegait of the said brought, boundit betuixt the landis of umquhill Richard Ros, now pertaining to the alris of umquhill William Soumer, William Stewart, and Andrew Faullis on the east, the yaird of umquhill James Wallace, now perteneyng to George Malsoun on the sowthe, the common passage callit the Allay on the west, and the said New Kirk and yaird thair of on the northe pairtis." The last mentioned yard was included in the property transferred to James Fleming, in 1570, and re-acquired by the city about 1592 (see protocols 1702, 1749, 2516).

<sup>1</sup> Dry multure was the quantity of grain payable to a mill whether the owner of land ground at it or not. Tolcross lands were liable in so much grain yearly, in return for which the owner had the privilege of using the mill to a proportionate extent.

<sup>2</sup> The two merk lands of Tolcross or Towcours were occupied by Gabriel Corbat of Hardgray and his sub-tenants in 1580, and on 6 May of that year Archbishop John Cuik, officer in Cuikiswaird, as bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: John Myllar in Kenmure, John Lowgy in Bradeisholme, John Armour in Towcours, and John M'Kay, servitor of John Lowgy.

3324. GEORGE AND HELEN LYONES. 6 April, 1592, 9 a.m.

George Lyone and Helen Lyone, spouses, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to them and l.l., the third part of lands called Lwynngishauuch, extending to four acres of land or thereby, with the pertinents, then occupied by the spouses, lying in the barony and lordship of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk.<sup>1</sup> Charter subscribed and sealed as in the charter mentioned in No. 3323. Sasine given by Robert Otterburn, King's messenger, as bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: James Mayne, merchant, John Moresone in Stokwoll, and John Masone, there, citizens of Glasgow.

3325. WILLIAM ANDERSONE OF STOBBCORS. 25 April, 1592, 7 a.m.

William Youngar in Brewland of Partik sold to William Anderson of Stobcours the fourth part of the lands called Mylneland, with the pertinents, lying on the east side of Stobcours, extending to an acre of land or thereby; bounded between the lands of Stobcours on the north, west, and south, and the lands of Cranstounhill, called the Persone land of Renfrew,<sup>2</sup> on the east;

Boyd gave him a feu charter of the lands. Accordingly the commendator's charter may be regarded as a confirmation of the feu. The property, described as a 26s. 8d. (= 2 merks) land, was resigned in favour of James Corbett, a kinsman, as narrated in protocol 3330. It was not till the year 1792 that the Corbett family parted with the Tolcross property. James Dunlop of Garnkirk was the purchaser, and from his descendants a large portion of it was acquired by the Corporation of Glasgow in 1897, and laid out as a public park (Glasg. Chart. i. p. dxxvi.) Hardgray or Hardgraif was situated in Dumfriesshire. It is stated in Anderson's "Scottish Nation" (to which reference may be made for further particulars) that a charter was granted by Thomas Corbet of Hardgray to John Corbet, his son, in 1406. By a crown charter dated 1 September, 1540, King James V. confirmed to James Johnstoune the lands of Hardgraif and Traquhettis, in the parish of Mekle Dawtoun, stewartry of Annandale and shire of Dumfries, which lands Robert Corbet of Hardgraif had resigned (Reg. Mag. Sig. iii. No. 2198). This was probably a wadset, and not an absolute alienation, as the territorial designation was retained. The Corbets of Hardgray are frequently mentioned in the protocols, and they were owners of the manse of the parson of Ashkirk, on the north-east side of the Drygate (see Reg. Mag. Sig. vi. No. 1770), and also of the subdean's manse (postea, 30 April, 1600). By the marriage of an heiress, the latter manse came into the possession of the Stirlings of Glorat (see protocol No. 1734).

<sup>1</sup> Linningshaugh, consisting of about twelve acres, and now forming the south-western portion of Glasgow Green, was formerly possessed in several lots by the bishops' rentallers, and the rental rights were converted into feu-holdings, in the same way as was done with other lands in the barony. The title deeds, going back to the constitution of the feu rights, are preserved among the city's writs (Inv. I. b. 37), and the rental rights may be traced in the "Diocesan Registers." Further particulars regarding Linningshaugh will be found in protocols Nos. 873, 1652-4, 1667, 2633, and relative footnotes.

<sup>2</sup> As to Parsonshaugh, which formerly belonged to the parsonage of Glasgow, see protocols Nos. 1037-8, 3193, and relative footnotes. From No. 3325 it would appear that the parson of Renfrew had also lands in the vicinity.

3326. WILLIAM SOMER. 6 June, 1592, 8 a.m.

George Lyone, citizen of Glasgow, for himself and in name of Helen Lyone, his spouse, sold and gave sasine to William Somer, merchant, citizen, of the west equal half of the lands called Persone land, next the Brumelandis, with the pertinents, lying t.c. Lands to be redeemable in terms of a contract. Witnesses: James Bell, James Tempill, John Bogill, merchants, citizens, and Mr. John Allasone, co-notary.

3327. JOHN CUIK, OFFICER, AND HIS SON. 30 September, 1592, 3 p.m.

John Cuik in Scheddilstone, citizen of Glasgow, produced a feu-charter whereby William, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the 20s. land, old extent, in Middle Quarter of Schedilstone, with part of the mill of Clydismyln, falling and belonging to the lands of old for dry multure (ex antiquo pro arida multura), then occupied by and belonging to him in rental,<sup>1</sup> lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Glasgow on 20 May, 1591, in presence of Archibald Stewart of Castelmilk, John Wallace, younger of Dundonald, George Huchesone of Lambhill, Alexander Craufurd, servitor of the commendator, and Mr. Henry Gibsone, notary. Sasine given by John Tennent in Schedilston as bailie in hac parte. Thereafter, John Cuik resigned the property in favour of John Cuik, his son and apparent heir; but reserving his own liferent. Witnesses: David Huchesone, skinner in Schedilstone, John Tennent and Simon Tennent there.

3328. JOHN GOWANE AND SPOUSE. 8 November, 1592, 3 p.m.

James Bogle, eldest lawful son of John Bogle, senior in Nedder Carmyle, for implement of part of a contract, gave sasine to John Gowane in Fullertoun

<sup>1</sup> John Cuik was probably a descendant of Stevin Cuik, who was "rentallit in xx s. land of Chedilstone" on 20 December, 1515 (Diocesan Reg. i. p. 74). Scheddilstone was situated in Cuikiward, one of the four divisions into which the barony was divided (see footnote to protocol No. 2015), and at the date of the above protocol John Cuik was the name of the officer of that ward. It is not improbable that the rentaller and officer were identical, and that the officership had been held by members of the family in succession, giving their name to the ward. All the other wards, Battermonoche, Partick, and Govan, got their names from lands, but there is no place name in the vicinity resembling "Cuik."

and Elizabeth Cors, his spouse, of the 13 s. 4 d. land in Nedder Carmyle, called Bogleshoill, then occupied by John Bogle, his father, and Margaret Harbesone, spouses, with tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, fishings, and a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln, and all other pertinents; which lands were the just and equal half of the two-merk land there, heretably belonging to the said James. Witnesses: John Cors in Over Carmyll, John Witherspune in Nedder Carmyll, and Simon Stewart there.

Done in the dwellinghouse of the notary, in Gallogait, within the city. Witnesses: John Gowane in Fullartoune, Thomas Bogle in Neddir Carmyll, William Bogill, his son, John Bogill, junior, there, Charles Nemok, and David Aitkyn, wright, citizen.

Thereafter, Mark Millar resigned the property in favour of David Millar, his son; but reserving his own liferent and right to redeem the property on payment of the sum mentioned in a contract. Witnesses: John Cwmyng in Partik, Michael Huchesone in Scheill and James Schankis in Gairbraid.

3331. WILLIAM MURE. 6 February, 1592-3, 11 a.m.

John Burne in Corshill, fiar of the lands aftermentioned, came to the personal presence of Cuthbert Conynghame, provost of the collegiate church of Dumbertane, lord superior of the lands, and resigned in his hands the 13 s. 4 d. land, old extent, of Corshill, with houses, yards, tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles and pertinents whatsoever, lying in the parish of Govane and shire of Lanerk; and that in favour of William Mure, flesher, citizen of Glasgw; to whom the superior gave the lands by delivery of staff and baton.<sup>1</sup>

3335. ARCHIBALD EGLYNETONE, NOTARY. 25 September, 1594, A.R. 28, 5 p.m.

Archibald Eglyngtoun, notary, dwelling in the city of Glasgow, produced a precept of sasine granted by King James VI., under his great seal, narrating that after the annexation made in parliament of all church lands within his realm to the crown, and after the dissolution of the said act for the setting in feu-farm of the said church lands, for policy and planting within his kingdom, the King, with advice and consent of his faithful and beloved councillors, John lord Thirlestane, chancellor, etc., Thomas, master of Glames, treasurer, Sir John Cokburne of Ormestoun, knight, clerk of justiciary, Sir Robert Mailvile of Murdocairny, knight, treasurer depute, and Mr. Robert Douglas, provost of Lynclowden, collector general, granted in feu-farm to Archibald Eglyngtoun, notary public in Glasgow, a tenement, fore and back, under and above, with the pertinents, lying t.c., on the south side of the street called the Tronegait, between the lands of John Ros on the east, the cemetery of the new church on the west, and the common street on the north; which tenement, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to the provost and prebendaries of the New Church as part and pertinent of the patrimony and property thereof, and then, by virtue of the said act of annexation, belonged to the King; as in a charter made thereon was more fully contained. Precept given under the testimony of the great seal, at Edinburgh, on 23 March, 1593-4.<sup>1</sup> Sasine given by Robert Chirneside

<sup>1</sup> There are some writs preserved in the town clerk's office which afford further particulars regarding this property. The first is a charter dated 7 April, 1500, whereby "Archibald Craufurd, canon of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, and provost of the collegiate church of the blessed Virgin Mary of the city of Glasgow, and the prebendaries thereof, with consent of the provost, bailies, and councillors of the city, patrons thereof," having in view the advantage of the church, granted and set in feu-farm to John Stewart of Bowhous "a waste tenement, partly begun to be built in the front, lying in the street of St. Tenu, between the tenement of the late Peter Adam on the east, the cemetery of the said church on the west, the north wall of the choir of the said church on the south, and the public street on the north." The feu-duty payable to the provost and prebendaries of the church was 10s. Scots (6d. sterling). On behalf of the church the charter was subscribed by Archibald Craufurd, provost of the church, Sir John Hammiltoun, archpriest, Sir Robert Watson, Sir Alexander Bel, and Sir William Harbartson, prebendaries. This alienation took place a few months before Queen Mary conveyed church property to the city, and accordingly, so far as the waste tenement was concerned, the feu-duty only would be carried by the charter. In 1569-70, John Stewart and his spouse sold the property to John Wilsone, merchant, and Jonet Auld, spouses, as is shown by an instrument of sasine under the hand of Henry of Over Possill, one of the bailies of the city. Witnesses: David Hall, merchant, Michael Dagleische, tailor, citizens, James Lockie, servitor of the bailie, and John Smyth, servitor in the city.<sup>1</sup>

Michaell Baird in Rouchill, Jonet Alexander, his spouse, and Robert Baird, their eldest son and apparent heir, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to the said Michael Baird, in liferent, and to Robert Baird, his son, heritably, the 13 s. 4 d.

Gibson, notary, dated 11 January of that year. A subsequent instrument, dated 10 November, 1585, of which an abstract is printed in protocol No. 2788, narrates the transfer of the tenement to Helen Wilson. Whether Archibald Eglinton acquired Helen Wilson's rights, or whether these were held to be confiscated by the annexation act of 1587, has not been ascertained. It will be observed that the charter itself ignores any intermediate possessor. In the year 1635, Hugh Eglinton, minister of Dunlop, who succeeded his father as owner of the property, sold it to John Wilson, cordiner, but the buildings were destroyed by the great fire of 1652. About five years afterwards the town council required part of the site for building an aisle to the Tron church, and they accordingly purchased "the old brunt house at the Laigh Kirk in Trongalt" from the relict and creditors of John Wilson, at the price of £1000 Scots = £83 6s. 8d. Sterling. (Original writs, including those specified in Inv. I., b. 10; Glasg. Rec. ii. pp. 341, 359-60, 367-8, 371-4).

As noted in protocol No. 2462 and footnote, a Sang School connected with the collegiate church was situated to the west of the church and cemetery. Part, if not the whole of the site of this school, and part of the cemetery, were feued by the magistrates and council in 1592 and 1593. Coming into possession of the Faculty of Surgeons in 1608, these portions remained in the possession of that body till 1800, when their property was acquired by the Glasgow Improvements Trustees (Purchase No. 417).

Charter subscribed and sealed at Blantyre Craig, on 24 September, 1594, in presence of John Sommervell of Cambusnathane, Adam Quhitefurd of Mylnetoun, John Watt, smith (fabro ferrario), burgess of Edinburgh, James Cockburn of Newholme, Robert Otterburne, King's messenger, and George Huchesone, notary public. <sup>1</sup> Lucide constat is a variation of "clare constat," the expression more commonly used in writs granted by a superior for the purpose of making up the title of an heir. Similar documents are still granted by superiors, and though written in English, bear the old name of precepts or writs of clare constat.

The property described in No. 3351, forming the north-west corner of a group of buildings situated between Kirk Street and Drygate Lane on the west and east, latterly known as Isle Toothie, was feued by the preceptor of St. Nicholas Hospital to David Wat in 1550 (see protocol No. 538), and the feu-duty continued to be paid to the Hospital till 1882, when it was redeemed by the Glasgow Improvements Trustees. At the north-east corner of the group was the manse of the rector of Erskine, and in the middle of the surrounding buildings was the tennis court, called in protocols "the caichpule." All the buildings in "Isle Toothie" were acquired and removed by the Improvements Trustees, and the area now forms part of Cathedral Square.

f. 81. Walter, lord of Blantyre, produced letters by King James, under his great seal, whereby the King, after his perfect age, and all his revocations, for himself and as father and lawful administrator to his dearly beloved son, Henry, duke of Rothesay, earl of Carrik, lord of the Isles, baron of the barony of Renfrew, prince and steward of the kingdom of Scotland, with consent of the lords of secret council and exchequer, gave, granted, and heritably disposed to his beloved and trusty cousin and counsellor, Walter lord of Blantyre, the King's treasurer, his heirs-male and assignees whomsoever, the lands and barony of Blantyre, with mills, fishings, tower, fortalice, outsettis, parts, pendicles, tenants, tenandries, services of free tenants, and all their pertinents, lying in the shire of Lanerk; also the 5 merk land, old extent, of Birdisfeild and Bellisfeild, and the two merk land, old extent, of Syde, with the pertinents, lying in the said barony of Blantyre and shire of Lanerk, and formerly proper parts and pertinents of the said barony, extending in whole to a £40 land, old extent. Also the 20s. land of Wrichtland, with towers, fortalices, mansion and yards built thereon; the £5 land of Cardonnald, and the £8 land of Eister Henderstoun, old extent, with the pertinents, lying in the parish of Paisley, barony and shire of Renfrew; also the lands of Wester Henderstoun, extending to a £5 land, old extent, with houses, yards, fishings, mills, multures, parts, pendicles and pertinents, lying in the parish of Paisley, barony and shire of Renfrew. Which whole lands of Blantyre, Wrichtland, Cardonnald, and Eister and Wester Henderstoun, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, and were resigned by him in the hands of the King for himself and as administrator to his son, superiors thereof; and the said lands of Birdisfeild, Bellisfeild, and Syde, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to David Dunbar of Dalderk, and were by his procurators resigned as in the hands of the superior, at Halyruidhous, in favour of lord Blantyre. The King also granted to Walter, lord of Blantyre, the advocation, donation, and right of patronage of the cell or priory of Blantyre, afterwards erected into one separate parsonage and vicarage (unam dirisum rectoriam et vicariam), as aftermentioned; all which formerly belonged to the said Walter, and were by him, personally, and also by the procurators of Alexander lord Home, as commendator of the whole benefice and abbacy of Jedburgh, to which the said cell or priory of Blantyre was of old united and annexed, resigned in the hands of the King as undoubted patron of the said benefice. Moreover, the King calling to memory, the good and faithful, sincere, honorable, and grateful service performed and rendered by the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, as well to the King in his own person during his infancy and childhood as in the government and administration of the commonweal of the realm, without any fault or defect, did of new give, grant, dispo, and for himself and the said Prince, for ever confirm to the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, and his heirs-male, the several lands and the barony above and aftermentioned, viz.:—the lands and barony of Blantyre, comprehending the following towns, lands, and others:—the Mains (terras dominicales lie Maimes) of Blantyre, with manor place, houses and yards thereof, the lands of Girnall Croft, Preistisfeild, and Preistisfeild Croft, the grain mill of Blantyre, called the Mylneheuch, with lands, mills, astricted multures, houses, yards and pertinents; the lands of Barnehill, Auchinraith, Syid, Baithous, Blanterferme, Bardisdysk, Birdisfeild, Bellisfeild, Park and Auchintiber, Latlegeoch, Holmebarnis, and Moichlinege, with all their houses, buildings, yards, orchards, woods, fishings, as well salmon as other fishes in the water of Clyde, tofts, crofts, moors, marshes, meadows, grazings, pasturages, outsetts, tenants, tenandries, and services of free tenants; with coals, coalheughs, and common usages and customs; with the patronage, donation, and right of patronage of churches, benefices, and chaplainries thereof, and all their parts, pendicles and pertinents whatsoever, lying within the said shire of Lanerk; together with all other lands, houses, buildings, yards, orchards, tofts, crofts, mills, woods, fishings, outsetts, annexes, connexes, dependencies, parts, pendicles, and pertinents whatsoever, as well property as tenandry, lying within the kingdom, belonging to the said lands and barony of Blantyre, as well not named as named. houses, buildings, and others, the 20 s. land of Wrichtland, with towers, fortalices, mansion and yards built thereon, the £5 land of Cardonnald, the £8 land of Eister Henderstoun, the £5 land of Wester Henderstoun, and all the pertinents and rights belonging thereto. Further, the King calling to memory that the temporal lands of abbacies, bishoprics, and monasteries within the kingdom had been annexed to the crown, so that nothing remained of the said benefices except the churches and teinds, called the spirituality thereof; which churches and teinds were dissolved from the said monasteries, and the same were erected into parsonages (rectorias) and vicarages, in which ministers preaching the Word of God and ministering the sacraments were appointed and employed, who were sustained upon the fruits and teinds of the said churches: therefore he, with advice and consent of the said Walter lord of Blantyre, then possessor of the cell and priory of Blantyre, and with advice and consent of the said Alexander lord Home, as commendator of the said monastery of Jedburgh, dissolved the said cell or priory of Blantyre from the said monastery of Jedburgh, to which it was of old united and annexed, and erected the said cell or priory into a distinct parsonage and vicarage (unum distinctam rectoriam et vicariam), and so to continue in all time coming. And for the experience and faithful testimony which the King had of the great zeal of the lord of Blantyre in the Word of God and religion, as then professed within the kingdom, he was appointed patron of the said benefice, which was therefore annexed to the lands and barony of Blantyre. The King also for himself, and as father and administrator for his son, prince and steward of the kingdom of Scotland, united, erected, and incorporated the several lands and others before mentioned, into a free barony, to be called the barony of Blantyre, ordaining the tower and fortalice of Blantyre to be the principal messuage, and one sasine taken there to be sufficient for the whole. Moreover, the King, desiring reparation and building in the town (villa) of Blantyre to be done for the ease and entertainment of the lieges resorting there; and for the greater increase of policy to be made on every side within the kingdom, and also for sundry other good causes and considerations, did, by his royal power and authority, make, create, and erect the town of Blantyre into a free burgh in barony, to be called the Burgh of Blantyre; giving and granting to the inhabitants full power and licence therein to sell and buy wine, wax, linen and woollen cloth, broad and narrow, and other things of that sort or colour, and all other merchandise; also to have bakers, brewers, fleshers, fishers, and all other craftsmen belonging or needful to belong to a free burgh in barony; also power to create free burgesses, and to erect a market cross, and to have a weekly market on Thursday, and a fair day yearly on the 14th of October, for buying and selling of flesh, fish, oxen, sheep, meal, pease, corn, barley, linen and woollen cloth, skins, and all other goods, victual and merchandise; with power also to the lord of Blantyre and his successors to depute and ordain the necessary keepers (custodies necessarios) of the said fairs and market days, and yearly to elect bailies and other officers needful for the government of the said burgh, and to build and erect a tolbooth in the burgh for ministering justice and holding baron courts therein: with all other privileges, liberties, commodities, customs, casualties and duties which to any other burgh in barony within the kingdom belonged, or justly might belong. Given under the great seal, at Halyrudhous, on 18 January, 1598-9. John Newlandis in Glenduffhill produced a precept from the King's chancery, directed to the bailie of the barony of Glasgow and his deputies, and also to William Mathie, junior in Sandihillis, as bailie in hac parte, in which precept it was narrated that the King, after the annexation of church lands within the kingdom to his crown, and after his lawful and perfect age, and general and last revocation (with advice of his counsellors, Sir Thomas Lyoun of Auldbar, knight, Mr. Robert Dowglas, provost of Lynelowden, collector general, and Sir John Cockburne of Ormestoun, knight, justice clerk), understanding that the lands and barony of Glasgow, which formerly belonged to the archbishopric of Glasgow as part of the temporality, patrimony, and property thereof, had fallen into his hands by virtue of the act of annexation to the crown of the temporality of all church lands within the kingdom; that the said lands and barony were by the King disponed and set in feu-farm to Walter, commendator of Blantyre, who was specially authorised and desired to set in feu-farm particular parts and portions of the lands of the barony in general charters, and that to the particular persons therein mentioned, each person for his respective part; by virtue of which infeftments of feu-farm the persons were bound not only for the full yearly duties, payable from the lands by old use and wont, but also certain annual augmentations for each particular part of the said lands, over and above the sum of £3722 10 s. money of this kingdom, payable by all the inhabitants of the said barony, for their grassums, entry and infeftments of the said lands set to them in feu-farm by the said Walter, although the said persons and each of them were of old native tenants, rentallers, and possessors of the said barony, the rentals of which barony were always of old, past the memory of man, esteemed and reputed as sufficient to the said rentallers as if the lands had been dispoſed and ſet in feu to the ſaid perſons; and that the King with conſent ſoſaid, and for the great reſpect which he bore towards the poor tenants of the ſaid barony, was unwilling to change or remove them from their farms and poſſeſſions, after the reſignation of the lands particularly mentioned in their infeftments, made in his hands by Ludovic duke of Lennox, earl of Dernelie, lord of Torboltoun, Obenzie, and Methuen, etc., with advice and conſent of Sir Alexander Steward of Garleis, knight, Mr. John Lindsay, rector of Menmure, Mr. James Elphinstoun, rector of Eglischeme, Mr. David Carnegy of Colluthie, James Weymes of Bogie, Sir William Stewart of Tracquhair, knight, by whom the duke was interdicted, and after reſignation of the ſaid lands and others after ſpecified, likewise made by the ſaid Walter, commendator of Blantyre, in the hands of the King ad perpetuam remanentiam for all right and title which he had or might in any way pretend thereto: Therefore, by the ſaid precept from chancery, the King ratified and confirmed the infeftment of feu-farm and ſet therein contained, with the precept of ſasine granted by Walter, commendator of Blantyre, to John Newlandis, eldeſt ſon of David Newlandis in Glenduffhill, and the inſtrument of ſasine thereon, of the 33 s. 4 d. land, old extent, of Glenduffhill, with the pertinents, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and ſhire of Lanerk, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydiſmylne correſponding and of old falling to the ſaid lands, for dry multure. <sup>1</sup> Several yards adjoining the new collegiate church, and apparently possessed by the prebendaries, were conveyed to the magistrates and council by Queen Mary's charter of 10 March, 1566-7. In 1568 and subsequent years most, if not all, of these yards were disposed of by the magistrates and council for payment of feu-duties or annualrents (see protocols, Nos. 1600, 1600, 1702, 1704, 1726, 1739, 1749, 1758, 1760-1. In No. 1700 the lands of Thomas Craig, presumably those mentioned in the text, are referred to as a boundary). When the site of the collegiate church was re-acquired, and the building fitted up as the Tron Church (see No. 1702), the price was partly paid out of the duties received for those yards (Glasg. Rev. i. pp. 161, 165).

In the city's accounts for the year 1607-8 the sum of £250 Scots was credited as "the hall annuellis of the New Kirk," and the amount applied towards payment of a minister's stipend (Ib. p. 473). It is supposed that the "annuellis" mentioned in the accounts would include the money received for the kirk yards, and also the other revenues of the New Kirk which, by act of parliament, 1594, c. 30, the magistrates and council were authorised to employ for "sustentation of the ministrie" (Glasg. Chart. ii. pp. 242-3). The yard mentioned in protocol No. 3322 pertained to the provostry, of which the abbey and convent of Kilwinning, and not the Glasgow town council, were patrons.

John Lyndsay in Greynleis acknowledged that she had recovered from Joanna Nicholl, spouse of William Fergusson, citizen, as assignee of John Nicol, her father, £40 for redemption of a waste tenement, with yard adjacent and pertinents, lying t.c., on the north side of the Rattonraw, between the lands of John Robertoun on the east, and the lands of the rector of Edilstone<sup>1</sup> on the west. Sasine of the

<sup>1</sup> Edilstone Manse, the property here referred to, was conveyed by the rector to Andrew Hay, his brother, as narrated in protocol No. 1477, and after various transmissions came into the possession of the incorporation of weavers. In 1792, when the weavers laid out their ground in building lots, the old edifice was removed, and part of the site was absorbed by Weaver Street. Robert Reid ("Senex"), in "Glasgow—Past and Present," vol. ii. p. 128, mentions that when he attended the Grammar School in 1782, "there stood upon the north side of the Rotten Row an old-fashioned house, two stories in height, about six houses distant from the High Street. Upon the front of this house," he continues, "there was cut upon the lintel-stone the following words—Domus Aedilium," from which circumstance it was conjectured that the place might possibly have been a dean of guild court house or a residence for the dean of guild. The true meaning of the inscription remained unsolved till recently, when Mr. T. W. Lugton, who has been investigating antiquarian relics in the locality, came upon what appears to be the identical stone which puzzled "Senex." It is now built into the backwall of the old Cross-Keys Inn, the property of the weavers' incorporation, situated at the north-west corner of Rottenrow and Weaver Street. "Domus Aedilium," however, was a misreading. The words, between which a scallop shell is carved, are

"DOMUS EDILSTON," thus identifying the lintel-stone as part of the old manse. Another stone in the same wall is inscribed with (1) the words "IVSTITIA - IVRA - FIDES"; (2) three escutcheons, being the arms of the Hay family; (3) "A. R.," being the initials of Andrew Hay; and (4) the date "ANNO 1578."

The Peeblesshire territory, from the church of which Rottenrow tenement derived its name, was one of the earliest possessions of the See of Glasgow. Originally called Penjacob, afterwards Gilmorestun, and, finally, Edulstun, its history can be traced from the beginning of the twelfth century. The church was confirmed to the bishops in 1170 and subsequent years, and was erected into a prebend of Glasgow cathedral before 1401 (Origines Parochiales, i. pp. 210-1). In the year 1447 a question arose between master John Methuen, canon of Glasgow, and Sir John Mousfield, chaplain, regarding the ownership of "a tenement, lying in the burgh of Glasgu, in the Rattonraw, on the north side of the street, between the land of the subdean of Glasgow on the west, and the land in which Jonet of Gerland dwelt on the east." Arbiters decided that master John should have right to the property as "annexed and pertaining to the prebend of Edilston" (Reg. Episc. Glasg. No. 361); and it may therefore be assumed that it was the manse or its site which formed the subject of controversy.

<sup>1</sup>Alexander Rowat obtained the degree of master of arts at the university of Glasgow in 1587, and was appointed minister of Cambusnethan in 1588 (Scott's Fasti Ecclesie ii. p. 274). In or about 1591 he was translated to Dalziel (Ib. 282; protocol No. 3155), and in the following year he removed to Rutherglen (Fast. Eccl. ii. p. 78), where he remained till 1595, when he was admitted as one of the four ministers of Glasgow (Ib. p. 14; Wodrow's Collections (Maitland Club) II. pt. ii. p. 7). John Couper, the colleague of David Wemyss, who was the first minister subsequent to the Reformation, had come to Glasgow in 1588 (see protocol No. 3160). Notice of the desire to have a third minister appears in the session record in 1591, when "the session appoint some to meet together to fall upon a provision for Mr. John Bell, regent, to serve in the ministry," and in 1593 the proposal was renewed (Collections ut supra p. 6). On 7 February, 1593-4, it was reported that "Mr. John Bell hath obtained a gift from the town of the duties of the New Kirk" (Ib.), these being certain duties and annualrents payable to the collegiate church of St. Mary, which were thenceforth applied towards the support of the ministry (see protocol No. 3453). On 7 March, 1593-4 the kirk session appointed certain persons to arrange with the town council and presbytery "to have Mr. John Bell inaugurate one of the ministers of Glasgow"; and on 16 September following all three ministers are mentioned in the sederunt (Wodrow's Collections ut supra, p. 6). About that time (1592-4) the old collegiate church of St. Mary was fitted up and used as a presbyterian place of worship, since known as the Tron Church; and shortly thereafter a proposal was made for having the landward portion of Glasgow parish set apart as a distinct pastoral charge. It appears that at first the parishioners were not favourable to a change as, on 22 April, 1595, it was reported to the presbytery that "ane hard ansuer" had been received from them to a communication "craving that the said parochineris resort to ane kirk of their awin, and that thai have ane pastour of thair awin" (Extracts from Presbytery Registers: Maitland Club Miscellany, vol. i. p. 70). Farther negotiations took place, and the presbytery minutes of 23 November, 1596, bear that "the parochineris of Glasgw" had been summoned to appear that day "to object (gif any thing they had) aganis the lyfe, doctrine, and maneris of Mr. Alexander Rowat, appointit be the last synodall assemble haldin at Lanerk, to be minister to the parochineris of Glasgw without burgh." Only one of the parishioners appeared, and he expressed himself satisfied, and "thairfor the said presbiterie puttis silence to the act of the said parochineris, and, according to the act of the said last synodall, admittis the said Mr. Alexander thair minister . . . And in respect that the specialis of the said parochineris hes aggreit and condiscendit that the parochis of Glasgw be ane several congregatioun of thair awin, thairfor the said presbiterie ordenis the parochineris of Glasgw to cum on the Sondaye, before nwne, to the Blakfreir kirk, quhill the hie kirk be repairit, and thair to heir the said Mr. Alexander teiche the word of God, according to the act of the said last synodall assemble maid at Lanerk theranent, with certification to the said parochineris, that gif thay salbe fund disobedientis to this act and ordinance, that thay sall ressave na benefite of the kirk, quhillkis ar the sacramentis of baptisme and the holy supper of the Lord Jesus, and the celebration of marriage, bot salbe simpliciter denudit of the samin" (Ib. pp. 84-5). On 1 February following protest was made in name of the presbytery and ministers of Glasgow "that the parochineris of Glasgw without the toune be ane particular and special congregatioun be thame selfs, separated and devydit fra the toune of Glasgw, according to the actis of the generall and synodall assemblies of the kirk maid thairanent; and that thay resort to heir Mr. Alexander Rowat, thair ordinar minister, preiche the word of God to thame, minister the sacramentis to thame, and celebrat mariage to thame, in the hie kirk of Glasgw, where with diligence ane pulpit salbe erected to the said Mr. Alexander, furmes set to the said parochineris, and the kirk foirsaid salbe maid windticht and waterticht quhair it misteris, as sone as possibillie may be done" (Ib. p. 86). Such was the origin of the Barony parish, an ecclesiastical arrangement which has since subsisted without any more formal disjunction.

When Alexander Rowat was admitted a minister of the city in 1595 the town council agreed to allow him £20 yearly "to pay his hous mail" (Glasg. Rec. i. p. 100); but this allowance probably ceased when he got charge of the Barony parish. The tenement described in the text was formerly the manse of the rector of Moffat (see protocol No. 3551).

half acres lay between the lands of William Flemyng on the east and west, and the other half acre lay between the lands of the said William Flemyng on the east, the common loyn on the west, and the former common lands (terras olim communes) on the north. Robert Rowat, bailie, gave to John Glen as heir of q. Patrick Glen, merchant, citizen, an acre of open land, with the pertinents, lying t.c., in the croft called Hartsfeld, near (prope) the croft of St. Roche,<sup>2</sup> between the

<sup>2</sup> Hartsfeld and St. Rollox (the modern form of St. Roche) are names frequently conjoined in titles of properties situated on the west side of Castle Street, about the place where it crosses the Monkland Canal; and in this vicinity, though the precise spot may be difficult to identify, must have stood the chapel of St. Roche. In protocol No. 1836 an acre of land in the common muir is described as lying on the east side of the church of St. Roche, and as bounded on the west by the "loyne leading to the Bischoppis briggis." This "loyne," which probably divided the church and croft from the lands of Garngadhill, was on the line of the present Castle Street. The approximate positions of Hartsfeld and St. Rollox are shown on the map prefixed to part i. of Glasgow Charters.

St. Roche was a native of Montpellier, in France. It is said that in his lifetime (A.D. 1295-1327) he effected many miraculous cures on persons stricken by the plague, and popular belief in his power as an intercessor continued after his canonization (see Glasgow Charters, pt. i. p. xlviil.) An indication of awakened or revived regard for the saint in this country is afforded by an entry in the Lord High Treasurer's Accounts (il. p. 346) bearing that on 30 October, 1502, there were given "to the Franch frere (friar) that brocht ans bane of Sanct Rowk to the King, be the Kingis command, xv Franch crounis; summa £10 10 s." About four years after this relic was obtained there is notice of a movement in Glasgow for the foundation and endowment of a church dedicated to the saint. On 20 June, 1506, Sir Andrew Birrell, a chaplain, with consent of the archbishop and chapter, and of the provost and bailies of Glasgow, resigned a tenement and yard in Etonraw in favour of "Sir Thomas Forbes, chaplain of the church of St. Roche, founded and about to be built in the territory of Glasgow" (protocol No. 181 in Diocesan Registers; see also No. 602). It is not said here by whom the church was founded, but an instrument, dated 10 October, 1508, shows that endowments for chaplainries were provided by Mr. Thomas Mureheid, rector of Stobo. Of one of these chaplainries the magistrates and community of Glasgow were constituted patrons, and certain property was transferred to them as such (Glasg. Chart., pt. ii. pp. 97-9; Glasg. Protocols, No. 1161). The magistrates and community were evidently interesting themselves lands of (blank) on the east, and of (blank) on west, and a loyne on the north. Thereafter, John Glen sold the land to John Liddell, citizen, and Katherine Flemyng, spouses, who resigned the same in favour of Quintin Liddell, their son, to remain with him till he should be paid 100 merks; but reserving the liferent of the father and mother. Witnesses: Alexander Bailze, John Dobby, John Porter, Thomas Snype, James Watterston, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, Mathew Camron and Andrew Andersone, officers.

3517. ROWAT. 9 January, 1598-9, 10 a.m.

William Graye, notary and citizen, for himself, and Andrew Spang, procurator and in name of Sara Hegat, spouse of William Graye, and of Katherine Normont, mother of the said William, sold to Robert Rowat, bailie, a tenement of land, fore and back, with yard and pertinents, sometime belonging to William Sutherland, and then to William, Sara, and Katherine, lying t.c., on the east side of the street leading from the metropolitan church to the market cross, between the lands of Michael Litaljohne and of in the foundation; and the site of the church, its cemetery and croft, all of which appear to have been originally parts of the town's common lands, were probably gifted by them. On 11 June, 1511, the dean and chapter of Glasgow formally consented to the erection of the chaplainries founded by Thomas Muirheid who by that time was rector of Govan (protocol No. 532 in Diocesan Registers). He died shortly afterwards, and on 24 November, 1512, the two chaplains of the church (Mr. David Murhede and Sir Alexander Robertstone) were vested in the endowments, including the croft and lands adjoining the cemetery (Ib. No. 601-6). To Mr. David were assigned the east half of the croft lying on the north side of the church, the north half of lands lying on the south side of the church, and the half of lands adjacent to the cemetery; and to Sir Alexander the west half of the croft and the south half of the lands lying on the south side of the cemetery. Each portion was to be divided by the liners of the city, and part was to be used for manes of the chaplains.

As shown by the deed of erection of the collegiate church of St. Mary and St. Ann, the chaplainry of which the magistrates and community were patrons, was, with their consent and that of Nicholas Witherspowne, the chaplain, merged in the prebend of St. Roche in the collegiate church, though provision was made for continuance in the church of St. Roche of the religious observances prescribed by the founder (Liber Coll. Nostre Domine, pp. xviii. 32-3). The patronage of the other chaplainry in the church of St. Roche appears to have belonged to the dean and chapter of Glasgow cathedral (Ib. pp. 303-4). After the Reformation the magistrates and council collected the revenues of the former chaplainry. In 1573-4 these revenues amounted to £27 14 s., and at that time the money seems to have been paid over to Sir William Struthers, a reader in the high church (Glasg. Rec. i. pp. 447, 456; Glasgow Protocols, Nos. 1958, 2552). The revenues of the remaining chaplainry were transferred to the college by the charter of 1572-3 (Glasgow Charters, pt. II. pp. 140-62).

On 7 December, 1568, the half of St. Roche's croft was feued, presumably by the magistrates and council, to William Spang and spouse (protocol, No. 902; transmitted by Nos. 1742 and 2047). In 1569 the magistrates and council feued the chapel and cemetery to Adam Wallis and spouse under reservation of a right to bury the dead in the cemetery, a privilege which was exercised during a visitation of the plague in 1645-6 (Ib. No. 1674). Two acres of the croft of St. Roche came into the possession of William Fleming and spouse in 1582 (Ib. No. 2462). Fleming seems also to have acquired the cemetery as, on 15 May, 1593, he appeared before the presbytery of Glasgow and was asked "gif it be of treuthe that he intendis to tell the kirkyardes of Sanct Roche and Sanct Tenes, or to convert the said kirkyardes in buyldit housis and landis, the said Williame ansuerit that he nathir intendit nathir yit myndit to tell the said kirkyardes or to convert the same in buyldit housis and landis"; and he assured the presbytery "that he suld use the said kirkyardes to na wither was nor the saming is unit presentlie" without first obtaining their consent (Presbytery Rec. in Maitland Club Miscellany i. p. 61).

3531. RANKENE—KNOX. 17 February, 1598-9, 2 p.m.

John Rankene, mason, citizen, and Elizabeth Knox, spouses, produced a precept from chancery whereby King James VI. confirmed a charter of feu-farm, granted by Mr. John Haye, rector of Renfrew, with consent of Andrew Haye, last rector and life titular of the said rectory, and also with consent of the dean and chapter of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, to the said John Rankene and spouse, and l.l., of a waste and ruinous tenement of land, called the manse of Renfrew, with a yard, close, and pertinents, occupied by the said spouses, and formerly set to them, lying t.c., near (prope) the castle, between the land and manor belonging to the Duke of Lennox, called the Stabiltgrene, on the west and north, the manse belonging to the prebendaries of Govane on the south, and the public street on the east. The manse had fallen to the crown by virtue of the act of annexation of church benefices, and the King, with advice of the commissioners of exchequer, of new granted the property to John Rankene and spouse.<sup>1</sup> Precept given under the great seal, at Halirudhous, on 4

HENRY GIBSON.
Vol. 32.

<sup>1</sup> Renfrew manse was acquired and united to the prebend in the year 1507, as narrated in a series of four protocols (Nos. 235-8) printed in the Diocesan Registers, published by the Grampian Club. The property belonged to St. Nicholas Hospital, and was granted by Sir William Silver, sub-chancellor and master of the hospital, with the approval of the archbishop and magistrates of Glasgow, in favour of Mr. John Gibson, prebendary of Renfrew, and his successors. It was described as "a tenement belonging to the said hospital, lying in the city of Glasgow, near the palace of the archbishop, on the west side thereof, between the manse of the prebendary of Govan on the south, and the lands of Patrick Colquhoun of Glen on the west and north" (see Sir William Fraser's "Chiefs of Colquhoun," ii. p. 260, as to Stablegreen property owned by the Colquhouns of Glen). On 17 June of the following year Gibson complained against Mr. Adam Colquhoun, then prebendary of Govan, for having appropriated part of the manse, and in presence of the dean and chapter he protested against the encroachment (protocol No. 323 in Diocesan Registers). Govan manse and the building now numbered 3-7 Castle Street, reputed to be the oldest dwellinghouse now existing in Glasgow, were situated between Renfrew manse and St. Nicholas Hospital, and there is reason to believe that when, in the fifteenth century, Bishop Muirhead founded the hospital, he endowed it with the whole area, embracing these properties. Each of the two manses is liable to the hospital in payment of a feu-duty or ground rent, and the preceptors of the hospital have, in the capacity of superiors, granted charters to the proprietors of the old building (see article in Regality Club, i. pp. 45-53). Since that article was written, farther inspection has led to the belief that some parts of the building were erected in pre-Reformation times, while a stone built into a gable of later construction bears the date 1570). Under the description above quoted Renfrew manse was bounded on the north and west by the lands of Patrick Colquhoun of Glen. Two years afterwards, parts of these lands seem to have been at the disposal of Mr. Adam Colquhoun, "canon and prebendary," as he then sold to Mathew earl of Lennox a "tenement, lying in the city of Glasgow, in the Stablegreen, between the lands of George Colquhoun on the north, and the manse of the archdeacon of Teviotdale and the prebendary of Renfrew on the south." In this place the earls of Lennox had for many years their town residence, but the grounds were eventually broken up and disposed of in building lots (see Glasgow Protocols, Nos. 55, 299, 2156, 2668-7, 2673-4). The hospital buildings fell into disuse more than a hundred years ago. On 10 December, 1778, the preceptor represented to the town council that "all the old houses which originally belonged to the said hospital (except the chapel) have for many years past been totally ruinous and uninhabitable" (MS. Council Rec. xxxiii. p. 376), and the site, containing 1389 square yards, was acquired by the magistrates and council in anticipation of its being used for the formation of part of a new street from Rainshorn and Meadowflat feuing lands to Townhead. (Contract of sale and ground annual, 20 August, a.c.s. 3 Sept., 1789). The chapel connected with and situated to the north of the hospital, was not disposed of till the year 1807, when a purchaser acquired, for building purposes, the whole area which had been occupied by hospital, chapel, and grounds, extending to 1510 square yards, or nearly the third part of an acre (City Chartulary, xxii. p. 374). The Barony church and adjoining buildings now occupy part of the area, and part is included in M'Leod Street. After the hospital ceased to be occupied the revenues have been distributed in pensions to aged people. (See farther as to hospital in Sir Michael Connal's "Memorial," printed for private circulation in 1862).

Andrew Hay was rector of Renfrew previous to the Reformation, but having embraced the new doctrines, he became a prominent presbyterian, and was for many years rector of Glasgow University and an influential citizen. It is probable that the rector did not long occupy his own manse, as in the year 1563 he acquired from his brother, George Hay, rector of Eddlestone, the manse of that prebend situated in Rottenrow (see Nos. 1477, 1526, and 3485). John Hay, who succeeded his father as minister of Renfrew, in 1593, seems to have acquired right to the parsonage during his father's life.

3532. MACKELLARE—MILLARE. 24 February, 1598-9, 9 a.m.

3533. HEGATE. 2 March, 1598-9, 2 p.m.

John Andersone, sailor, procurator and in name of Stephen Glasgw, resigned in favour of Archibald Hegate, notary and citizen, a great tenement, fore and back, under and above, with close, yard, and pertinents, lying t.c., on the west side of the street leading from the metropolitan church to the market cross, between the lands of William Porterfeld of that ilk on the time, as the charter, confirmed by King James, and narrated in the text, was dated 20 May, 1590. This is ascertained from Registrum Magni Sigilli (vi. No. 795), where it is likewise stated that the annual rent payable by the rector to the poor of St. Nicholas Hospital was 7 merks yearly, and the feuar was bound, for relief of the rector, to pay the 7 merks, with 12 d. of augmentation. In consequence of this stipulation, the ground rent of Renfrew manse has always been collected from the owner of the property. In the case of Govan manse a different course has been followed, as the ground rent (£7 Scots yearly) has been charged to Glasgow College as owner of the parsonage (Munimenta Alne Universitatis, iii. p. 557; MS. Cash Books of St. Nicholas Hospital). This was apparently in consequence of the college feuing the manse site for payment of sub-feuduties, and remaining liable for the over-rents due to the hospital. The date of the sub-feu has not been ascertained, but it must have been previous to 1668, as on 26 August of that year the principal and professors granted a precept of clare constat to William Neilson, as heir of his father, Walter Neilson, a bailie of the city, in five yards or gardens, at the "Vicar Alleys," and one yard at Stable-green. The latter seems to embrace the site of Govan manse, and is described as a "yard lying in Stable-green, at (prope) the manse of the parson of Govan, betwixt the lands of q. Quinten Rankine on the north, the lands of John Brysoun and the hospital of St. Nicolas on the south, the lands of q. William Steward on west, and the street on the east." The feu-duty for all the lands contained in the precept was 246 Scots yearly (MS. Charters and Precepts granted by the Universitie, 1668-99, p. 1.) William Brysoun was the proprietor of the old house in 1612, and John Brysoun was the name of his successor. Quinten Rankine, a successor of John Rankine named in the text, is entered in an old rental of St. Nicholas Hospital as owner of Renfrew manse. The old manse building had probably disappeared about 1668, thus accounting for the site being described as a yard. Demolition was proceeding in 1608, as appears from an entry in the college accounts on 1 November of that year, when a payment was made "for leiding ten draocht of wall stones out of the mans of Govane to the college" (Munimenta iii. p. 558).

The fronts of Govan and Renfrew manse, taken together, are now occupied by the properties numbered 9-29 Castle Street. Mason Street seems to have been formed through the site of the Lennox mansion.

<sup>1</sup> Moffat church was one of those confirmed to the See of Glasgow by Pope Alexander III. in the year 1179. It had been transferred to the bishops by Robert the Brus, when settling a controversy regarding the lands of Annandale (Reg. Episc. Glasg., Nos. 51 and 72; Chalmers' Caledonia (1824), iii., pp. 181-2). John Stewart was rector in 1547 (Reg. Mag., Sig. iv., No. 418), and the next noticed on record was John Wardlaw, who, in the year 1574, feued the manse to Robert Wardlaw, son of Henry Wardlaw of Torrye, reserving, as was usual in the disposal of manses at that time, a right to hospitality, with the use of a chamber and stable, when he should have occasion to visit the city (Ib. v., No. 545). John Ros and spouse having acquired right to the property, sold it to the minister of the Barony parish, as mentioned in protocol No. 3502, and the King's charter narrated in the text confirmed his title. In a disposition granted in 1752 by the three daughters of "Mr. George Craufurd, historiographer in Glasgow" (to whom the property belonged when M'Ure published his history in 1736), Moffat manse is described as "lately possessed by Mr. Laurence Hill, minister of the barony parish of Glasgow." Laurence Hill was translated to the barony parish in 1750, and it thus appears that for a short period he occupied the manse which his predecessor had purchased in 1598 (Improvement Trust title deeds; purchase No. 1100).

<sup>1</sup> In Dr. James Finlayson's "Account of the Life and Works of Maister Peter Lowe, the founder of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons in Glasgow," published in 1889, most of the known incidents in his Glasgow career are chronicled, including his marriage with the daughter of Mr. David Wemyss, minister. Supplementary particulars are contained in a paper contributed by Dr.

Finlayson to the "Glasgow Medical Journal" for October, 1898. Protocol 3556 discloses the name of the surgeon's former wife, and narrates that he purchased a house on the west side of the High Street, perhaps as a residence (see also No. 3582). <sup>1</sup> In the years 1596-7 there were communings among the town council, ministers, and crafts regarding hospitals, and the "Guidub in Briggate" was proposed as one of the sites (Glasg. Rec. I., pp. 167-8, 187). The crafts ultimately selected Morbotill manse as the site for their hospital (Glasg. Protocols 618, p. 115), and the merchants fixed on the property mentioned in the text and situated on the south side of Bridgegate. According to the "View of the Merchants' House of Glasgow"

(pp. 16-18), the precise date of erection of the latter hospital is uncertain, but the dubiety seems to have arisen from misreading the inscription on the steeple which still stands in Guildry Court. That inscription bears that the hospital was founded in 1601 and rebuilt in 1659. As shown in protocol No. 3557, the building of the hospital was either in progress or about to be commenced in the middle of the year 1599.

<sup>2</sup> By act of privy council dated 15 February, 1561, it was ordained that the third part of all benefices should be collected and applied "for the commone weill of the realme and sustentatioun of the precheouris and readaris," the remaining two-thirds being retained by the "auld possessouris" during their respective lifetimes.

(Privy Council Reg. i., p. 202). On 5 June, 1568, King James VI. granted to the magistrates and council of Glasgow the thirds of benefices within the city to be applied for support of their minister, any surplus being "employit to the sustentatioun of the reidaris, puris, and utheris gud usis" (Glasg. Charters ii. pp. 137-40). From the city's accounts for the year 1573-4 it appears that the thirds of Sir Robert Watsone's chaplainries were paid over to the university (Glasg. Rec. i. p. 462).

<sup>1</sup> This rental has not been preserved. The original endowments of the chaplainries are specified in Liber Coll. Nostræ Domine (Maitland Club), pp. xix., xx., 35-45. The "commones" consisted of the revenues of two acres of land in Mylhill, and sundry tenements within the burgh, which were set apart as a common fund for the general behoof of the prebendaries (Ib. p. xxi.)
